Letter to Reese Not Expected to Be Followed by Blanket Support

Can't Back Friends for Fear of Entanglement With Local Issues

Washington.—(AP)—President

Hoover does not plan any blanket endorsement of candidates for congress either in the primaries or the final election campaign.

Publication of the letter written by the president backing up Representative Reese of Tennessee led to the inquiry as to whether Mr. Hoover had embarked upon a policy similar to that of other presidents who endeavored to assist their party colleagues in holding their seats.

It turns out however that the letter to Mr. Reese does not constitute a precedent but is merely a special case which arises from the fact that Mr. Reese sponsored an administration proposal with reference to Muscle Shoals and is now being attacked by his opponents because of his advocacy of that particular piece of legislation.

Mr. Hoover in his letter points out Mr. Reese's plan for Muscle Shoals is better for Tennessee and the nation than the Norris proposal which the president says had no chance of enactment by the house or approved by the chief executive.

TARGET FOR FOES

The opponents of Mr. Reese have been piling him for his attitude which of course he assumed on behalf of the administration. This prompted the White House to come to his support in the primary campaign. It has always been recognized as the right of a party leader to indicate which candidate he prefers but Mr. Hoover has stayed out of all the senatorial and congressional primary fights notwithstanding the fact that some of his close personal friends and supporters, like Congressman Fort in New Jersey and Senator Deeney of Illinois were running.

While the president is anxious as other presidents have been for the return of members of congress who have supported his legislative program he has not felt that it was incumbent upon him to differentiate between Republican candidates.

To do so would have meant entanglement in local issues ranging from prohibition to tariff items. With only a few exceptions the Republicans in the house have supported the president on all important pieces of legislation. In a number of instances the opponents in the primaries are waging their fight on local or personal issues in which the administration would not wish to participate.

MORE PRESSURE SEEN

When once the primaries are over and the choice is between Democrats and Republicans there will be pressure again for some words at the White House to decide on some general statements in the autumn that might be construed as an effort to bolster up the Republican case but there is not going to be any explicit appeal for the re-election of Republican members of congress or the election of Republicans to replace Democrats.

Many years ago there was no impropriety from a political viewpoint in a president's asking for a Republican or Democratic congress. Mr. McKinley did it and so did Mr. Roosevelt but when President Wilson made his appeal for a Democratic congress it acted as a boomerang though the politicians to this day say the Wilson appeal would not have caused criticism had it been made in normal times and on domestic issues as were the McKinley and Roosevelt appeals for public support of their party in congress.

RUMOR MOVEMENT TO OUST BRITISH PREMIER

London.—(AP)—A reported move among younger Socialists of the house of commons to depose Ramsey MacDonald as premier and Philip Snowden as chancellor of the exchequer is the subject of much talk in parliamentary circles.

Gossip current in the lobbies says that even one or two members of the government are associating themselves with the rebels.

MacDonald and Snowden are said to be well aware of the intrigue, which, if it continues, may be discussed at a meeting of the Labor party.

It long has been known that the premier and some of his colleagues do not go fast enough and far enough and far enough to satisfy the more ardent Socialists, who are said to be dissatisfied with Snowden's refusal to sanction certain costly unemployment schemes and also are demanding immediate disarmament by Great Britain.

Testimony of MacDonald Being Considered by California Tribunal

San Francisco.—(AP)—Examination of John McDonald, "turncoat witness" in the San Francisco Preparedness day bombing trials was resumed before California Supreme Court justices today near Fresno, Calif.

Unexpected introduction of original report, buried 14 years in police files, provided material for defense contentions that authorities knew MacDonald lied when he identified Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings as the bombers.

The justices are sitting as an advisory board for Gov. C. C. Young in connection with Billings' new plea for a pardon.

Attorney Edwin McKenzie was summoned before resuming cross examination of MacDonald that Edward Nickels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of labor, was present and willing to submit concerning MacDonald's trip west in 1921; the money spent on the trip, the identity of a mysterious "Mr. Thompson," who figured in the case, and other details of his acquaintanceship with the witness.

McDonald testified yesterday his identification of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings as the two men he saw place a bomb at Steuart and Market-sts. July 22, 1916, was false.

He gave a troubled conscience as his reason for appearing before the committee to testify he had been "coached" to identify Mooney and Billings as the bombers. Both are serving life terms in prison.

The justices are considering Billings' application for a recommendation for pardon. Mooney, meanwhile, has applied to Gov. C. C. Young, for pardon.

MacDonald was questioned four hours and insisted he was telling the truth and branded his testimony in the Mooney-Billings cases as "a bunch of lies" which former District Attorney Charles M. Flickert and Captain (then sergeant) Charles Goff of the San Francisco police influenced him to tell.

Billings' attorney quickly seized upon two documents presented to the hearing by Justice Preston—papers which never before had appeared in any judicial consideration of the cases of either Mooney or Billings.

The first was MacDonald's first statement to police, two days after the bombing, in which he described the man who planted the suitcase presumably containing the bomb, and the man the bomber met at the door of a nearby saloon. In the trials, the first had been identified by MacDonald as Billings, and the second as Mooney.

The defense attorneys pointed out the descriptions given in the original statement, and repeated in the second document, the report of the policemen who took the statement to his superior, Captain Duncan Matheison, did not fit Mooney and Billings.

HAMER LEADS DERBYISTS TO AND FROM CHEYENNE

Cheyenne, Wyo.—(AP)—Herman Hamer of La Salle Ill., who led on the Los Angeles to Ogden, Utah, lap of the All-American air race yesterday, was the first to land on the Cheyenne air field today. He took off for Lincoln, Neb., the night control point, at 11:12 a. m. five minutes after his arrival.

Lee Gehlbach of Little Rock, Ark., landed at 11:05 and was away at 11:16.

Lowell Bayles, of Springfield, Mass., landed at 11:11 and took off at 11:18.

One derbyist who beat all of the others to Cheyenne did not stop and was not identified.

GARMENT WORKERS BACK AFTER STRIKE

Baltimore.—(AP)—More than 1,000 garment workers returned to their benches today after being out on strike for a week.

Of the 24 firms affected by the strike, called by the local branch of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in a dispute over a three year contract, 12 signed an agreement with union representatives yesterday and two previously had signed.

Four of the remaining firms and union representatives are to confer, it was said today. About 2,000 employed in the needle trades here went out.

MONTELLO MAN FINED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Stevens Point.—(AP)—Charles McNamara Montello, was fined $500 and costs by Judge Byron B. Park on a charge of fourth degree manslaughter. A stay of execution was granted. Montello's car killed Clarence Peterson, 21, Wausau, on March 22.

It long has been known that the premier and some of his colleagues do not go fast enough and far enough and far enough to satisfy the more ardent Socialists, who are said to be dissatisfied with Snowden's refusal to sanction certain costly unemployment schemes and also are demanding immediate disarmament by Great Britain.

WITNESS SAYS HE'S CERTAIN OF IDENTITY

Foster's Own Lawyer Draws Witness to Point Him Out as Slayer

Chicago.—(AP)—Frank Foster was identified by a traffic policeman today as the gunman he chased through Michigan-blvd. throngs last June 9, a fugitive from the scene of "Jake" Lingle's assassination.

The identification electrified the courtroom. Drawn from the witness stand by Foster's own attorney, it turned the tables on his effort to free the gangster from the county jail where he has been lodged since his return from Los Angeles under indictment for the murder, ten days ago.

Anthony Ruthy, traffic officer stationed at Michigan-blvd. and Randolph-st., had described the man he pursued and lost in the crowd.

"Did you ever see the man after that?" Harold Levy, defense counsel asked him.

Ruthy's face reddened. He hesitated.

"Well, I've seen a man who looks like him."

"Who is that?" Levy inquired.

"Him," he pointed to Foster.

A gasp went around the courtroom. Ruthy was asked if he was positive of the identification, and the gunman, scowling furiously and obviously uneasy, was paraded across the room.

"Now turn him around," Ruthy said.

"That's the man!" He exclaimed as the defendant showed his profile.

Mrs. Foster, in the audience, turned white and her husband was accompanied him back from California when he was brought home under heavy guard, ostensibly to tell what he could of the ownership of the weapon found beside Lingle's dead body.

PROBE PLANE CRASH IN MADISON MARSH

Commerce Department Inspector Investigates Tragedy Which Killed Two

Madison.—(AP)—Testimony that a short take off and consequent loss of flying speed, probably due to carelessness of the pilot, caused an airplane crash which killed two men yesterday, was given E. H. Longyear, U. S. Department of Commerce Inspector, here today.

Charles E. Anderson, Jr., Los Angeles broker, owner of the plane, and George A. Morgan, St. Paul, pilot, were the victims. They were burned to death when their plane fell 150 feet into a marsh and caught fire.

Elmer Riddle, an eye witness, said a fire extinguisher might have saved the men's lives. The plane settled upright, he testified, and grass caught fire from a leaking gasoline tank, and ignited the plane.

Reds Loot And Burn Foreign Properties In Changsha

GIVE SPOILS TO RABBLE IN FALLEN CITY

Communist Leaders Preach Red Doctrine in Midst of Destruction

BULLETIN
Peiping, China—(P)—Latest reports received here today said that the city of Changsha was in flames. All government buildings and foreign property in the city were burned with the exception of the post office and the hospital.

The premises of American oil companies were stated to have been burned.

Shanghai—(P)—A word picture of the methodical burning and looting of Changsha was gleaned from information sent today by reliable sources in the Communist ridden area.

Due to the rapidly falling river level, foreign gunboats were unable to approach nearer than five miles of Changsha. One American, one British and one Japanese ship anchored to observe developments, which were reported by Chinese runners.

The reports indicated about 8,000 armed reds had established a camp just east of the city, from where they were conducting their systematic campaign of looting and burning foreign properties.

Raiders divided the city into forty or fifty wards and placed each under the direction of a Communist leader who supervised the destruction in his district.

Each leader had a large group of men and each rifleman in turn had a squad of unarmed men. The riflemen and their squads carried out the business of looting and burning and at the same time conducted propaganda work.

Advices said a rifleman and his squad would approach a foreign property destined for destruction and while the unarmed men carried moveable effects into the street the armed leader would address onlookers on the alleged non-militaristic aims of the Communists and suggest his hearers become active workers in the red cause.

When the house furnishings were piled into the street the bystanders were allowed to help themselves while the riflemen pointed out such a practice was a part of Communist principle, enabling clothes and peasants to obtain their "rightful" shares of property "wrongfully" in the possession of the upper classes.

By these methods the reds were believed to be swelling their ranks rapidly.

The city water and electric systems apparently had not been molested. The number of foreign buildings destroyed was not known. One report said the Italian mission had not been destroyed because the priests had paid the reds large sums of money. The Japanese hospital was razed.

HOSPITAL SPARED

A Changsha dispatch received here said all foreign properties in the Hunan capital except the Yale China University hospital and post office had been burned. This was taken to mean the Communists had destroyed that portion of the institution devoted to education.

Communists posted notices offering $200 reward for the capture of each foreigner, Chinese official or foreign employed Chinese in Changsha. The Communists want such persons primarily for ransom as they are considered able to raise large sums of money for their release.

One report said two Germans had fallen into the hands of the Changsha rebels and that the Rev. Mr. Lingling was believed to have escaped.

Local headquarters of the Southern Baptist mission received a message saying four missionaries stranded at Pochow, Anhwei province, when rebels took over the city, had been succored when Nationalists recaptured the place July 22. The message said the missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Strowther, Dr. Mary King and Miss Olive Riddell, had received sufficient food while the city was beleaguered and had not been molested.

A Japanese dispatch from Hankow stated the Japanese consulate in the northern part of Changsha had been looted and burned and said a majority of Japanese residents of Changsha, numbering about one hundred, were enroute to Hankow aboard a small Japanese steamer accompanied by a Japanese gunboat.

FEAR FOR AMERICAN

Washington—(P)—Concern was expressed in Washington today over disquieting reports from war-torn sections of China in which Americans still remained.

Official sources have disclosed that two American missionaries remain in the burning city of Changsha, left behind by American, British and Japanese gunboats. The missionaries, both men, were unmolested in the meager reports. Both refused to leave when the gunboats were compelled to withdraw because of the overwhelming number of Communists and the rapid fall of the watermark.

The only other foreigners known to have been left behind was an Italian missionary, Father Baiman, reported captured by bandits when he made a last-minute efforts to get away after refusing to abandon his post.

Meanwhile, cables from the American legation at Peking told of an American warning sent the Nanking government against endangering American lives at Taitan, where the Nanking forces have been carrying on bombing attacks.

Reports are being made to the American citizens at Taitan, who, "the Nanking foreign office

DEMOCRATS IN OKLAHOMA RUN NECK TO NECK

Blind Former Senator and Millionaire to Enter Run-off Aug. 12

Oklahoma City—(P)—T. P. Gore, blind former senator who dropped out of the political world for ten years only to stage a spectacular comeback, and Charles J. Wrightsman millionaire oil man of Tulsa, today were racing neck and neck for the lead in the contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Oklahoma.

As returns came in from yesterday's primary, it became apparent that Gore and Wrightsman would be forced to battle it out for the nomination in the run-off primary Aug. 12.

A veteran of early Oklahoma politics, W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, who came back from Bolivia only recently after an unsuccessful attempt to establish a colony, was running so far ahead of his nearest opponent for the Democratic nomination for governor that his friends claimed a run-off would not be necessary when the complete vote was counted.

Murray had nearly a 2 to 1 vote over his nearest opponent, Frank Buttram, Oklahoma City oil millionaire who only this year entered politics. E. B. Howard, former congressman of Tulsa, who had shifted throughout the night for third place with M. E. Trapp, former governor, was in third place again today.

With 1,355 precincts of 3,338 in the state reported in the senatorial race, Wrightsman held the lead with 32,892 votes, Gore had 32,518, Henry S. Johnston, former governor, 21,657, Lee Cruse, former governor, 18,065, and J. B. A. Robertson, former governor, 7,100.

PINE ESCAPES RUN-OFF

Indications that Senator W. B. Pine, Republican incumbent, would not face a run-off primary was shown by the vote he received with 510 precincts reported. He had then polled 12,233, while his two Republican opponents had a total vote of 4,265.

Returns from 1,766 of the state's 3,338 precincts for the Democratic nomination for governor gave Murray 70,758; Buttram 38,038; Howard 22,224; M. E. Trapp, former governor, 21,773, Frank Bailey, 7,305.

After serving as president of the Oklahoma constitutional convention in 1907, speaker of the state house of representatives and member of congress for two terms, Murray retired from public life in 1916. He led two bands of colonists into the wilds of Bolivia, but the adversities of frontier life discouraged his followers and Murray followed the last of them back to the states less than a year ago.

Gore, attaining the senatorship at statehood, was in the national limelight during much of the 13 years he served in the highest legislative body. He is noted for his eloquence and is a profound student of government. His blindness has proved no handicap to him in office.

The economic platform of both Gore and Murray found favor in the agricultural districts, deeply depressed by low prices of farm crops and the drought that increasingly has blighted prospects of this year's yield.

Gore was delighted to find intact the grotto of Sannicola, in Monticchio. It contains priceless Byzantine frescoes.

ARREST KAUKAUNA MAN ON CHARGE OF RAPE

Herbert Steak, Kaukauna, was arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg on charges of statutory rape and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was arrested on complaint of the mother of a 16-year-old Appleton girl. Preliminary hearing of the case was set for Aug. 5. Steak was unable to furnish $500 bonds and he is being held in the county jail. He was arrested by Undersheriff Edward Lutz.

It was told by American Consul Adams at Nanking, "However, the American government expects that every precaution will be taken to avoid loss and injury to American lives and property and should any losses or injury be suffered by American citizens at Taitan the American government reserves all rights in the matter."

Only four Americans remain in Taitan and consular officers said they were continuing efforts to have them leave. American mission property there is valued at $250,000.

The Communist forces at Changsha were reported to have burned all public buildings and to be engaged in widespread looting. Only the Yale hospital and the post office were destroyed at the last reports, while American oil plants were not threatened at the time.

Changsha in January had a population of 48 Americans. It is one of China's important industrial cities.

Plans Comeback

CORN STATES HARD HIT BY LONG DROUGHT

Dry Spell Worst in Years—Cooler Weather Fails to Bring Relief

Washington—(P)—Cooler weather did not bring with it rain to break the worst drought the country as a whole has known in years.

The agriculture department in its weekly weather and crop bulletin today said local showers brought only temporary relief to a few sections.

The corn, over wide areas, stands sick and shriveled in the field and the report said the larger part of the crop in Missouri "will not even make silage." From Ohio came word of stalks tasseling at half their usual height with "irreparable injury reported in most of the state."

Dorothy MacKaye, above, whose career as an actress was cut short three years ago when she was sentenced to a California prison for a year for concealing facts in the death of her husband, Ray Raymond, musical comedy star, is now planning a comeback at Hollywood. Raymond was killed in a fist fight with Paul Kelly, movie actor.

WOMA CRIES FOR RAIN

Iowa was hot and dry during the week ending Tuesday with only small sections receiving moisture. Damage has been heavy in Nebraska but the crop there was reported as "fair." The prevalent cry: "Rain is coming from North Dakota."

In the western corn belt, especially in Kansas and Wisconsin showers in the past seven days heartened the farmers.

It is too dry over much of the state for the heat loving cotton. The crop is deteriorating in the northern two-thirds of Texas and in Oklahoma. Showers in the north and east helped some in Arkansas but more rain would be welcome. Louisiana cotton made little progress. Parts of west Tennessee have not had rain for 70 days.

East of the Mississippi showers give relief, but many sections had no rain at all and an old-fashioned "gully washing" downpour was needed to fill the thirsty soil.

Commenting on the lower temperatures the agriculture department said "no actual benefit can be derived without general and generous rains over widespread areas."

NO RAIN IN EAST

Baltimore—(P)—With the temperature in the eighties and the humidity halved, the 20-day Baltimore and Maryland heat wave ended today but no relief from the record drought was promised.

Forty-nine deaths and 39 heat prostrations were laid to the hot weather siege.

Forecasting continued dry weather tomorrow, the weather bureau announced the month would qualify as the driest July on record.

Several Maryland rural districts rejoiced in showers last night but the entire state continued to suffer heavy damage to crops and from the water shortage.

Today's relief was considered likely to be only temporary. In a few days, it was said at the weather bureau, the heat wave may be back.

THIEVES LIFT STOCK OF BOOZE FROM HOME

Evanson, Ill.—(P)—To Mr. Lynn A. Williams, summering at Mackinac Island, Mich.: Your stock of pre-war cognac, imported gin and Kentucky whiskey—132 bottles—has been stolen.

Someone broke into the house, took the liquor, drank part of it, and sold the remainder. Arthur Prevost, a chauffeur, told police he and two other men took it, including the cognac, nearly 100 years old. Fred Kemper, another chauffeur, also confessed. The third man is sought.

The appellants asked that if the order were not cancelled its applications be postponed 90 days to prevent serious loss to the manufacturers, shipping interests and the laborers deriving their livelihood from unloading the vessels.

A decision on these appeals was promised within two days. Lowman yesterday, however, said no one had shown convict labor had not entered into production of the pulp. He gave the Russian leave to submit any evidence on this point.

Under the tariff law convict-made goods are barred from entry, whatever the country of origin.

Marching On

Alice Roosevelt Longworth To Support Ruth McCormick

Washington—(P)—The political genius of Alice Roosevelt Longworth, will have to be reckoned with in the Illinois senatorial combat this fall for Teddy Roosevelt's daughter will be more than a spectator in the battle between Ruth Hanna McCormick and J. Hamilton Lewis.

Mrs. Longworth, now in Jamestown, R. I., said she probably would be in Illinois before the November election. So active had Mrs. Longworth been already before the stage of her friend's campaign, it was rumored in the capital she would take the stump for Mrs. McCormick toward the close of the contest. Though she denied this definitely, she is expected to sit in on the councils of war.

Her presence in the McCormick camp will signalize that the Roosevelt spirit is in active fighting mood. Mrs. Longworth's perseverance in her lifelong rule of keeping off the open battlefield of politics is itself a bit of testimony to her inheritance of political acumen. Perhaps there is no one who senses this more keenly than Candidate McCormick.

The two women's association dates unbroken back to the Roosevelt regime, when the then "Princess" Alice and young Ruth Hanna played croquet on the white house lawns. They were girlhood chums. After the Roosevelts left the mansion, and the Hanna family returned to Ohio, the friendship was kept alive by frequent visits. The widow of Medill McCormick and the wife of speaker of the house have been abroad together; they were to be seen together in the galleries of congress and at social gatherings here throughout the late Senator McCormick's term. When Mrs. McCormick entered the race for the house of representatives, it was Mrs. Longworth she chose for closest political counsel.

It was Mrs. Longworth who kept the election-night vigil with the candidate—and the scene was re-enacted at Mrs. McCormick's farm in Illinois when she waited the returns from the senatorial primary last spring. It is said frequently in fact, that Mrs. Longworth was a potent influence in Mrs. McCormick's decision to make the senate race

Three Held In Slaying Of Candidate

ARCHITECTS WORK ON SKETCHES FOR NEW POSTOFFICE

Don't Believe Construction Will Start Before Next Spring

BY RUBY A. BLACK Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—Treasury architects have started work on sketches for Appleton's new $250,000 post office building.

It is too dry over much of the state for the heat loving cotton. The crop is deteriorating in the northern two-thirds of Texas and in Oklahoma. Showers in the north and east helped some in Arkansas but more rain would be welcome. Louisiana cotton made little progress. Parts of west Tennessee have not had rain for 70 days.

Each federal office seeking space in the building has laid before the treasury architects their needs. The architects are now making preliminary sketches embodying as far as possible the recommendations of the different federal offices. When these are done, the interdepartmental public buildings committee will go over all the sketches with the different departments which will use space in the building to see if any changes must be made.

Then the detailed drawings and specifications will be drawn, advertisements prepared for the construction contract, and the contract

Company Earning Many Times Its Annual Dividend Payments

For the first six months of 1930, the Northern Paper Mills group earned $241,365.39 as against $187,439.49 for the corresponding period of 1929, it was reported Tuesday at a meeting of the board of directors at Green Bay.

In both cases these figures are net available to the stockholders after making full provision for all operating expenses, depreciation, all taxes including income taxes—state, federal and provincial—and miscellaneous overhead, it was reported.

This amount represents a gain of 30 per cent in net earnings for the current period as against the first six months of 1929.

In view of the current depression in general business, this gain was declared to be more than satisfactory by the board of directors at Green Bay.

After making full provision for dividends on the preferred stock, the last six months earnings figure out $2.93 per share for the common stock being at the rate of $5.86 per share per year.

Current sales of the stock have been at $40 per share, dividends on which are being paid at the rate of 50 cents per share per quarter.

The common stock dividend is accordingly now being earned almost three times over and the preferred stock dividends more than twenty times.

Total paper sales for the first six months of 1930 were about 5 per cent ahead of the corresponding period of 1929. This accounts in part for the increased earnings though a greater influence has been the capital improvements made in Green Bay during 1928 and 1929 at a total cost of one million dollars, the full benefit of which is not yet being received.

The corporations which make up the Northern group are: The Little Press company, Appleton; Northern Paper Mills and Northern Electric company, Green Bay; Paper Service company, Chicago; Patten Timber company, the Cloverland Supply company and General Paper Mills Inc., Amasa, Mich., and Northern Paper Mills, Ltd., Coppell, Ontario.

5TH CANDIDATE ENTERS RACE FOR ASSEMBLY JOB

A fifth candidate Tuesday entered the race for the assemblyman's job from the second Outagamie-co district. He is Arthur Zutches, Seymour, who is seeking the Republican nomination. There now are four Republican candidates and one Democratic candidate, Mr. Zutches, city assessor at Seymour, secured his nomination papers Tuesday from John E. Hantschel county clerk.

Candidates now seeking this office include: Mr. Zutches, Percy Silverwood, Oneida; R. J. Doersch, town of Seymour, and William Bay, Kaukauna, all on the Repubican ticket; John J. Roan, Kaukauna, incumbent, is seeking reelection on the Democratic ticket.

The body was taken to the Schommer Funeral home.

Wisconsin Weather

Mosly fair tonight and Thursday, slightly cooler tonight in extreme southeast.

General Weather

Generally fair weather has prevailed over most of the country during the past 24 hours, except that light local showers occurred in the upper lakes, along the middle Atlantic coast and in the western plains states. The western high pressure area has overspread the upper Missouri valley and western plains, bringing moderate temperatures to the whole central valley and Ohio valley. High temperatures were observed yesterday in the southern states, with a maximum of 104 degrees observed at Memphis, Tenn. Continued fair weather, with little change in temperature, is expected this evening tonight and Thursday. The weatherman says the weather will improve Saturday and Sunday.

Marquette, Mich.— Purchase of the Porcupine mountain areas of virgin forest as a federal park was advocated at a meeting of the conservation department and the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau here last night. Agreement was reached that state purchase of the 160,000 acres would be too costly, but should the government fail to take interest, it was the sense of the meeting that the state should take over part of the area.

WAUPACA BOARD TO CONSIDER HIGHWAYS

Plan for Five Year Paving Program Outlined by State Commission

The Waupaca board of supervisors will meet in special session Thursday at Waupaca to consider the county's five-year highway construction program as outlined by the state highway commission and recently made public.

At a meeting of New London business men and supervisors recently at New London, the program was approved.

Four major projects are outlined in the proposed program. Two of them are grading and surfacing with concrete of Highway 54 from New London to the intersection of highways 54 and 22; grading and surfacing with concrete of highway 22 from Manawa to the intersection with highway 54. Completion of this project will pave the entire New London-Manawa road.

The other two projects are grading and surfacing with concrete of highway 49 from intersection with U. S. highway 10 to the south county line; grading and surfacing with concrete of highway 145 from the intersection with United States No. 10 to the Soo Line depot at Weyauwega.

The financing arrangement as proposed by the state highway commission will require no financing on the part of Waupaca co. Surplus from last year's construction program, highway construction allotment advancements and free allowance will make it possible to carry the program through without any financial burden on the county.

L'FOLLETTE MAKES APPEAL IN NORTH

Promises "Fair Treatment" to Northern Section of State

Prairie Farm (Barron county)—An appeal to northern Wisconsin in behalf of his candidacy in which he promised "fair treatment" for that section of the state, was made here today by Philip L. LaFollette. Progressive candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

As a solution to the inadequate attention northern Wisconsin has received, Mr. LaFollette listed four steps that will be of permanent importance to both the northern part of the state and Wisconsin as a whole.

These he listed as:

1. Conservation and development of natural resources in the public interest, and encouragement of reforestation and protection for forest fires.
2. Relief of real estate from its oppressive tax burdens.
3. Recognition by the state of its responsibility for aiding in providing equal education opportunities for all of its youth.
4. A sound highway program, and development of water powers to produce power at reasonable rates, fording cheap power for industry and agriculture.

Tracing the aid given the northern section by the 1929 legislature, Mr. LaFollette said:

"In the 1929 session of the legislature, there were twenty-two bills introduced designed to give the northern half of Wisconsin recognition.

Three of these became law. Three were beaten in the Assembly. Nine were beaten in the Senate, and seven were vetoed by the present Governor."

"This section of our state was richly endowed by nature with forests, water powers, productive soil, lakes and streams and unrivaled beauty spots," he continued. "It has already contributed to the wealth of Wisconsin in its vast timber resources, vastly more than it has ever expected in return. It is entitled to consideration today from the state which it enriched by millions of dollars in the past."

THE CANADIAN ELECTION

The Canadian elections have resulted in the overthrow of the MacKenzie-King Liberal government and a sweeping victory for the Conservatives. So great a reversal has taken place that for the first time the solid Liberal province of Quebec has been penetrated by the opposition. This is comparable in a way to the invasion of the solid South by the Republicans in our presidential election of 1928. It signifies a profound upheaval which temporarily at least upsets many Canadian traditions and renders difficult a political forecast of the future. Before the election it was not expected that the Conservatives would make an impression in the Liberal stronghold of Quebec or in the Maritime provinces, but this calculation was entirely disclosed.

The new prime minister will be R. B. Bennett, an aggressive and capable Conservative. The election was fought over the traditional half century old controversy of the tariff, with the question of the St. Lawrence seaway development, upon which both parties are agreed in principle but opposed in methods, thrown in. Unemployment also figured in the result. Canadian Liberals somewhat approximate the Democrats of the United States on tariff policies, while Conservatives are the equivalent of high protection Republicans. In the campaign just finished the Liberals receded very much from their old tariff policies, just as former Gov. Smith did in this country, and appealed to the electorate on a combined platform of protection and British empire preferences. The Conservatives advocated a general tariff wall to protect the country's industry regardless of empire consideration or of the American tariff policy. They are opposed to British empire preferences. They also made a play of promised legislation to check the exodus of young men to the United States.

It is to be taken for granted that the election will bring about a modification of the government's action in increasing the tariff against the United States so as to shut out $200,000,000 of American commodities, while at the same time lowering it or wiping it out against a similar amount of Canadian purchases from Great Britain. This does not mean that a higher tariff wall will not be raised against the United States, but it will apply to all countries alike. In other words, Canada is to go to a more advanced protective policy coinciding somewhat to that of the United States.

According to Dominion statistics the United States had invested in Canada $3,470,000,000 at the end of 1928 while Great Britain had only $2,197,000,000. Since 1925 Great Britain has increased its investments in Canada by only $26,000,000, while the United States added more than a half billion dollars in three years. These figures signify the changes that are taking place in the economic relations of the two countries.

On the St. Lawrence seaway the Conservatives favor the proposal that the waterway shall be an all-Canadian project. The Liberals favored allowing the United States to pay half the cost of the development and exercising certain proprietary rights. So far as the actual construction of the seaway is concerned, it probably makes little difference which party is in power, except that in case American participation is agreed upon it will be necessary for this country to act jointly with the Dominion.

The election, while surprising the Canadians themselves, was probably to be expected. The value to Canada of closer close and preferential relations with the British empire is beginning to recede in the Dominion mind. Practical considerations dealing with Canada's status in the New world rather than its relations with the Old world are beginning to replace sentiment.

HELPING WHEAT FARMERS

The Interstate Commerce commission has ordered a reduction in freight rates on grains throughout western territory to the principal seaports. The order is for the direct purpose of assisting agriculture by promoting export sales. The new rate, which will apply to wheat and all other grain products, is expected to lower considerably transportation costs from producing areas to the seaboard. Heretofore wheat has paid a substantially higher rate than lower priced grains such as corn, oats, rye and barley. Now it will be put down to the same basis. The order is not effective until October 1st, so that the farm belt may not be greatly benefited by it this year, although a stimulation of export trade may follow which will reduce the large wheat surplus being carried over.

This highly important action of the Interstate Commerce commission was taken as the result of a national survey conducted by it under the authority of a congressional resolution. It is estimated that it will cut the revenues of the railroads by as much as $15,000,000 in the aggregate. How this will affect the transportation interests remains to be seen. The railroads have suffered a reduced volume of traffic and are not at present in the most enviable position as to earnings. Whether they will protest the order of the commission or accept it in a spirit of cooperation for the relief of agriculture is not disclosed.

Whether, too, the reduction in rates is sufficient to be of any real value to wheat growers and to the activities of the Federal Farm board are questions that can be determined only by a practical trial of the change. Commissioner Eastman is not very optimistic. He thinks it may help the farmer a little, but he does not believe it will go far toward solving the agricultural problem. If that is the case it may turn out that the loss of revenue to the railroads is not justified by the returns to agriculture. Nevertheless, the cheap transportation of farm belt products to the seaboard is of vital importance to a re-habilitation of the farm industry. When the Mid-west obtains direct access to the Atlantic by the Great lakes and the St. Lawrence seaway savings in marketing costs very much greater than those it is possible to secure from reducing railroad rates will be available and they will be of great assistance in disposing of surplus crops abroad. In fact, such transportation economy may invite raising of surplus crops, where they are decidedly uneconomic now.

MORE PROSPERITY AHEAD

The census figures are so near final tabulation that the director takes a chance. He says that on April 1 this year there were just about 122,957,000 people in this country. Call it for convenience, 123,000,000. It is probably that much by now anyway. And a big population it is. Ten years ago we had 105,710,000. Here is a gain of more than 17,000,000 in a decade. It is like adding a nation to a nation. The gain alone is nearly twice the population of Canada. And we have had little immigration in this decade. No race suicide here.

The same rate of gain would add about 20,000,000 in the next 10 years. Here is something for business men to think about. It provokes optimism. Twenty million more producers and consumers. Business will be just that much bigger in 10 years, even if standards don't rise. Let doleful real estate dealers and owners think what it means to them. Twenty million more people needing homes—that will help city values. Twenty million more people needing food—that will help farm values.

A battery operated electric searching light of 500,000 candle-power that projects a beam of light a mile has been developed that weighs only 12 pounds.

The Spanish government is encouraging the production of hemp in that country through export bounties and a surtax on imported hemp and hemp products.

One hundred years ago 75 per cent of this country's population was required on the land for the production of food. Today less than 25 per cent supplies that need.

CAN IT be possible? Yep, rub your eyes folks and pinch yourself on your arms, a heavy weight battle of importance has not ended in a foul even though one of the most finished foules of the game was a participant. Yep, Willy Strubbing has flattened Phillip Scott Ph. P. (Painting Palooka) and all his blows were high above the equator. Now if they can only subpoena Eddie Schneid and get him into a ring through sheer force, (we can't see any other way to do it) perhaps the grand old business of sleeping on the canvas can be raised to unreamed of heights.

PERTINENT QUESTION: What and how many are stowed away on the R-11?

Aha—Snooping!

It comes to us from a reliable source that George Hogriever was the recipient of an invitation to attend a meeting of the Anti-Saloon League. It is also reported that a brand new heat wave broke out for a good half hour or so.

We're Gonna Have to Censor This Sort of Thing Pretty Soon

Dear Jonah:

I note with pleasure that . . . brave souls have come to the front and joined the "Anti-Hortense Movement."

I hope that they haven't a conscience! Every time I walk down College Avenue and see a "litter-minded" looking damsel, I feel ashamed of myself.

(Editor's note—a which? We never saw one.)

And then again, I stop to think that I'd just as soon take a long, long trip such as was suggested—expenses paid. But that brick-string idea—uh, uh!

My first installment of the pledge I made is enclosed. One cent a month for ten months . . .

An Open Letter to Al Capone

Dear Alf,

Well, Alf, we just had an idea we know you're going to be interested in. You're building yourself a big house, we know, and our idea is going to cost money, but we're sure it's going to appeal. (You're always strong for appeals anyway.) Over in Denmark they want to sell the navy, and Alf, here's your big chance to become an admiral. Just think—Admiral Al Capone. Doesn't it sound great? Of course, there are only two ships in the Danish navy, but since England and France and the rest are scrapping theirs, you can pick up some more ships dirt cheap.

Today's Anniversary

HENRY FORD'S BIRTH

On July 30, 1863, Henry Ford, American manufacturer, was born at Greenfield, Mich., the son of a farmer.

He began early to develop an interest in mechanics but when he finished his education at the district schools his father put him to work on the farm. After three years of this Henry went to Detroit to work for $2.50 a week in a machine shop. Constantly working with engines, Ford later was made an engineer and machinist with the Detroit Edison company. After hours he worked on the building of a gasoline motor car. When it was developed he left the electric company and went into business for himself.

In 1903 he organized and became president of the Ford Motor company, which has become the largest automobile manufacturing establishment in the world, and the third largest industry in the United States. In 1926 the company had assets of about $1,600,000,000 and had in its employ some 200,000 people directly and an equal number indirectly.

Ford was a pronounced pacifist before the war and sought by a peace mission to bring the warring nations into conference. Convinced his errand was hopeless, however, he returned home.

SCHMIEGE TELLS HOW BADGER LAWS ARE MANUFACTURED

Assemblyman Describes to Rotarians Functions of Governmental Units

The functions of Wisconsin's governmental units in making laws were explained in detail by Assemblyman Oscar J. Schmiege in an address Tuesday noon before the Appleton Rotary club at Conway hotel.

Mr. Schmiege explained that the state senate, assembly and the governor play important roles in putting the laws on the books. The governor, however, merely has the power to suggest legislation and the power to veto measures which he does not approve. His vetoes can be overridden by a two-thirds vote of both the senate and assembly.

The assembly consist of 100 members elected from districts and the senate consist of 33 members, also elected by districts. Senators, however, are elected for four years while assemblymen serve only two years.

The legislature holds a regular session in January of each odd-numbered year and these sessions usually last until June or July. Special sessions may be called by the governor and in recent years there has been at least one special session between each regular session.

During regular sessions, Mr. Schmiege explained, the legislature usually meets every day from Tuesday to Friday, with frequent meetings on Monday evenings. Sessions usually last from 10 o'clock until noon and continue with recesses, until evening.

FOLLOW RULES

"Each of the two lawmaking bodies are governed by a special set of rules of regulations and there are some joint rules governing matters of joint concern," he said. "These rules of procedure are practically the same as those used in all other legislative bodies in English speaking countries. Behind them are a great mass of precedents, known as 'parliamentary law,' the beginnings of which can be traced to the earliest Anglo-Saxon legislative bodies."

"In order to be certain that all laws will be the will of the people, as is essential in a democratic form of government, the lawmaking bodies through the rules governing them, must give adequate study and discussion to each measure and there must be sufficient freedom to permit every useful contribution of ideas and opinions and with sufficient deliberation to exclude as far as possible the untoward influence of haste and passion."

All bills must be drawn so as to definitely state their purpose. They may be introduced either by a member of one of the houses or by a legislative committee. Anyone desiring to have a bill introduced is able to get a member to sponsor it. A bill must have the backing of the definite interest on the part of some member or its chances of passage are slight.

After being introduced in either branch the bill is sent to the revision committee of the assembly or the revision clerk of the senate. This action eliminates technical errors. Then the bills are reported back by the clerk or committee. They are not fully read.

COPIES ARE PRINTED

"It is not necessary to read the bills because copies of them are printed and can be secured by the legislators. After this reading the bills are referred to the special committee which deals with that particular subject."

Mr. Schmiege then explained how committees are organized and appointed and what their duties consist of. One of the most important functions of the committees is to form a link between the public and the legislature. When the bills are before the committee the public may appear to express its views on the measure.

After the committee hearings the bill is voted on by the committee. It is then carried back to the house where it originated with the committee's recommendations. If the committee recommends passage then a date is set for its consideration. All bills must be read three times to prevent enactment of legislation by surprise. The bills are read, however, only by title. This reading, Mr. Schmiege said, is a carry-over from the English parliamentary procedure and was designed when printing was non-existent or difficult and the ability to read was not general.

Following the third reading the bill is placed on the calendar for a vote on the next calendar day, two days later.

You can't stop the sun from shining, but you can do the next best thing by erecting a street awning to protect shoppers from Old Sol's scorching rays. Hints For The Shopper

The shopper is offered a wide choice in stoves and ranges. The best ranges are made of cast iron with porcelain baked on the metal, and are provided with a heat regulator. The lining (inside of range) should be rust-proof. The cheaper, less desirable grades are made of stamped metal and will live or yield to a smart tap or when pressed against.

In all ranges and stoves, accessibility to the different parts is a requirement which all housewives appreciate. See that detachable, movable pieces, such as lids, grates, oven trays, etc., fit easily, are not warped or out of line where straight edge meets straight edge or where circular parts fit into or over holes. An uneven lid makes a bump on the stove or range, which may result in trouble.

Fireless cookers are of either the soapstone or the electric variety. In the former case the stone or stones are well heated and then inserted in the cooker where they slowly give off their heat. In the electric type the heat is generated in the cooker itself.

IDLE PRISONERS TURN TO EXTENSION STUDY

Madison — (P) — Correspondence courses of the University of Wisconsin extension division are antidotes for enforced idleness among the convicts at the Wisconsin state prison at Waupun, according to Warden Oscar Lee.

In a report to the extension division, Warden Lee expressed the hope that all prisoners can in time be induced to take some course by correspondence to relieve the agony of idle time.

The report shows 559 students took courses in the prison in the biennium just closed. An increase of 91 per cent was shown by years—192 prisoners enrolled in 1928-29, and 367 in the last year.

The biennial figures show 163 completed study courses, 60 have been finished courses, while 138 prisoners are working on courses. Besides, 80 convicts completed reading courses, and 178 others are engaged in taking them.

Vocational courses are the most popular, according to Chester Allen, director of field organization with the extension division, who has visited the prison twice a month to aid men in their work. He lists them in order of popularity as follows:

General education, lettering and show card writing, business, building, engineering, drafting, auto mechanics, music, interior decorating, commercial art, farming, and gardening.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

FEW days after Christmas, Corinne came bursting into the Merriman living room one snowy afternoon, cheeks flushed with the icy air, hair tumbled under a white fur hat that matched the long white fox that was draped over a black coat.

Mrs. Merriman, downstairs now, and far enough along the road to recovery that Sue could go back to work in another week, looked at her questioningly.

"Were the furs another gift, Corinne? It seems to me your husband is too generous. Anyway, you look like the snow queen should have looked in the fairy tale."

"No, not exactly, a gift," she answered. "I mean he gave me the money to buy them but they came under expenses. I got that jeweled wrist watch for Christmas. I hear the Thorntons are leaving for the glowing southland tonight. I'd take a longer vacation now, Sue. No longer than with Jack gone."

"All the more reason. Somebody has to keep the office files complete. Now if you'll excuse me, Mrs. Harry Becker, I'll go upstairs and make the beds."

A minute later Corinne came up and perched on the edge of the dressing table.

"Sue, have you any money?"

"Money?" Sue laughed softly. "About eight dollars in my pocket book. I haven't worked for awhile remember."

"That's right. I don't see how you can pull the patient Griselda stunt and let your salary go. I couldn't. Well, eight dollars wouldn't help me much."

"Help you?" In her surprise Sue sat down on the tumbled pink blankets of the bed she was making.

"I need a whole lot more than that . . . and I need it in a hurry." Corinne's voice was frightened but Sue could sense the dominating sense of the dramatic in her sister. She decided not to be especially concerned.

Valley Race Tightens As Season Enters Last Month

WISCONSIN RAPIDS LEADS FIELD BUT MAY FIND TROUBLE

Green Bay, Kim-Little Chute and Kaws Are Strong Opposition

DOPESTERS who have been attempting to pick the winner in the Fox River Valley league now are scratching their heads and muttering, "What's the use?" And the whole difficulty seems to be in the slump taken by several clubs and the new life shown by several others during the last week or so.

Wisconsin Rapids is almost conceded the winner of the flag this season but there is more than an even chance the boys from over in the heart of the state won't make the grade. The Rapids downed Appleton in a most impressive manner Sunday to take a strangle hold on first place but that means little or nothing.

There are several other teams in the loop as a matter of fact any team in the loop, capable of taking the Rapids for a ride. Neenah-Menasha still has strength enough to bump off the Rapids. Kaukauna can if it gets the breaks. Green Bay seems much improved and a real threat to the leaders while even Marty Lamer's Little Chute-Kimberly aggregation has shown signs of getting rough during the last month of play.

The showing of the Bays during the last two weeks is creating considerable comment. In ball circles while Kim-Little Chute's win over Kaukauna also has set tongues wagging.

Appleton's two defeats in the last two weeks have been the subject of much comment. However, the more sarcastic folks are jibbing that the Fords are only returning to form, intimating their streaks of wins were caused by what is commonly known as "playing over their heads." Whatever it is, the Fords need to be shaken out of the dumps if they are to continue in the race up until the Labor Day battle.

Sunday afternoon Len Smith will take his protégés over to Neenah-Menasha for the afternoon's entertainment. The Pails have been wandering along in just ordinary fashion and are almost on the bottom of the loop with six wins and seven trimmings. Beating the Pails is one of the pet hobbies of the Fords so that perhaps Sunday afternoon the boys will again get into the win column.

Other games will find the league leading Rapids nine over at Kaukauna battling the best Les Smith can pick up. Les read the riot act after losing to the Papermakers Sunday and probably will have his team back where it belongs this week.

The other game will show Marty Lamer and his hopefuls up at Green Bay competing against the Green Sox. A win for the Bay should bring the club within hopping distance of second place.

SPENCER, M'KENNEY IN STATE TOURNAMENT

Former Competes for Director's Cup, Latter for Senior Title

Only two Appleton golfers, Lyle Spencer, of Riverview country club and C. E. McKenney of Butte des Morts are playing in the various flights of the state amateur golf meet at Milwaukee. Spencer is playing for the director's cup as result of an 85 score, while McKenney is competing for the senior championship.

Among the other Appleton golfers who competed Tuesday in the qualifying round only Frank Murphy's score was given in reports Wednesday morning. Murphy had 45-91. August Brandt who was to have played Monday withdrew from the tournament because of death of his mother.

C. E. McKenney and Jimmy McKenney also competed in the paper-mill tournament but failed to place among the leaders. C. C. Allen and son of Kenosha club won the title.

Robins Lose To Boston And Cincinnati Bumps McCarthy's Champions

Gehrig Gets Two Homers to Help Yanks Wallop Athletics

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

THE Pittsburgh Pirates had their full share of grief and more at the start of the 1930 season and are pretty well out of the National league pennant race. But they are on top of the second division and the least slip on the part of their leading rivals will place them among the first four clubs before the season ends.

The Pirates placed themselves only two games out of the first division yesterday with a rather impressive 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. They piled up an early lead, lost it when Remy Kremer's pitching wobbled a bit, then came through with two runs in the ninth inning to win. Lloyd Waner drove them in, singling when Sahr and Booel were on base to complete a string which included an

WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Thursday—Tuttle vs. Power company at Roosevelt; Petts vs. Fox at Wilson.

WEEK'S RESULTS

Power Company 12, Telephones 5. Telephone Press 8, Chair company 3. Machines 20, Coated 1. Telephones 6, Chairs 3.

THE Appleton Machine company softball team staged a track meet Tuesday out at Roosevelt junior high school grounds and romped all over the Coated Paper company softballers for a 20 to 1 victory. The win gives the Machines undisputed second place in the league, and if the Power company beats the Tuttle Press Thursday evening there may be a triple tie for first place.

Two runs were tallied by the Machines in the first frame and thereafter there was no need to worry. The game was close until the seventh frame, however, the score then being 3 and 1. In the seventh the Machines started things moving and the balloon went up as far as the chairs were concerned, eight runs coming over the plate with six more in the eighth inning and three in the ninth.

Egger and Brockhaus worked for the Coated, the former being touched for 23 hits. Schwandt and Herb went the route for the Machines.

The other game of the evening saw the Telephone company give the luckless Chairs another booting and win 6 and 3.

Thursday evening two more games are scheduled but only the Tuttle Press company—Power company game at Roosevelt school holds interest. The Power company has strengthening its team and dopesters are picking it to take the Pressmen over the bumps.

ARMSTRONG WILL AGAIN COACH AT CARROLL COLLEGE

Pioneers See Another Championship With Return of Veteran Mentor

WAUKESHA — Norris Armstrong, football coach of the Carroll college Pioneers, will arrive in Waukesha from Danville, Ky., Sept. 1 to begin grid practice, it was learned Tuesday, following the arrival here of Dr. W. A. Canfield, president of Carroll, from Louisville. Army and Dr. Canfield had a conference in Louisville and at that time the date of the former's arrival here was set.

The Reds continued to display their mastery over the Chicago Cubs, and kept Chicago from gaining on Brooklyn, by winning the series final 4 to 3. Old Eppa Rixey had a fairly easy time of it except for Hack Wilson's 33rd home run of the year, which put the Cubs into the running. It was the ninth time the Reds have beaten Chicago in 15 games this season.

The third place New York Giants trounced the Phillies by an 11 to 5 score. Carl Hubbell gave the Phils 10 hits but half of them were divided among O'Doul, Klein and Sherlock and did comparatively little damage. The Giants got eleven effective blows.

With Washington idle and the Philadelphia Athletics held in subjection by Henry Johnson, the New York Yankees made the day's big gain in the American league race with the Cleveland Indians trailing in their wake. The Yankees humbled the world's champions by a 12 to 3 count as Lou Gehrig's hitting ably seconded by Johnson's pitching. The Athletics made only seven hits while Gehrig alone made four, including his thirtieth and thirty-first home runs of the season. His other two blows were a triple and a double.

The Indians combined 13 hits with a burst of wildness on the part of Guy Carrill while the Detroit Tigers failed to find many effective combinations for the same number of blows. The final count was Cleveland 14, Detroit 7.

The Chicago White Sox put over four runs in the fifth inning and defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 2.

BOB PICKS CUBS AND ATHLETICS TO REPEAT THIS FALL

ster Says Night Baseball
May Work in Minors but not Majors

BY DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer
ATLANTA—(AP)—Ty Cobb, a dominant figure in baseball for more than 20 years, is resting quietly at his home in Augusta, satisfied with the part he played and not overly anxious to get back into the game.

"I'm enjoying a well-earned rest and I like it," he said when visiting a mother here. "Maybe some time a desire to re-enter the game will come strong again. Then I'll look around. When a good proposition comes perhaps I'll be ready to accept, but I won't play any more."

"You'll never hear of Ty Cobb as player. I still can play, but I always said I'd quit while I was at the top and I'm not going back on my promise."

Fishing, hunting and golf have Ty Cobb in fine trim. He weighs about 188, just a few pounds above a normal playing weight. Golf stands him his chief recreation now. Ty thinks interest in baseball is in the decline. "People are not following the teams. Back in the old days a sixth place club could pack stands in late August," he said. "It's not the game it was ten years ago. They are missing the finer points. The big punch is all that counts nowadays."

Cobb thinks the Athletics are a bunch to win the American pennant and believes the Cubs will repeat in the National. He thinks night baseball is still a novelty but may live in the minor leagues. "I don't look for the majors to adopt it," he said. From a business angle it's probably life-saver to the small clubs but takes away from the playing end. Players can't see well enough to play as well as they would expect in the daytime."

Sports Question Box

Question—What advantage is there in batting left handed?

Answer—None as far as batting skill is concerned. The advantages lie in being nearer to first base by a step or two because the batter is on the right field side of home plate.

Answer—Yes, provided the amateur does not accept money prizes for any of the contests he takes part in.

Question—Was the Chicago club high in the race on the Fourth of July 1930 as it was in 1922?

Answer—It was as high in rating because it was first until the afternoon of the Fourth of July but it is not as high in percentage.

PRISON OF FUTURE MAY HAVE TEAR GAS SYSTEM

Rochester, N. Y.—(AP)—Electrical tear gas systems eventually will be installed in all the big prisons of the country as a safeguard against outbreaks, state police chiefs in session here were told Tuesday by J. A. Sackier of Cleveland.

"A row of batons make it possible to produce tear gas 'showers' in whatever section of the prison needing control," he said. "In former riots, tear gas has been found the most effective controlling agent but its value has been lessened through inability to have the gas at hand when it is needed quickly."

NEWSPRINT PLAN NOW AT STANDSTILL

Establishment of Industry in Alaska Waits on Power Group Status

Kaukauna—In an effort to keep the Lowe's bridge within its bounds on hot days, Kaukauna officials have installed an electric motor and strung a line of hose from the canal to the top of the bridge so that a stream of water can be turned on the steel beams to keep them cool. During hot weather the steel expands to such an extent that the bridge cannot be moved for the passage of boats and considerable confusion has resulted. It is hoped that the new five-man commission authorized by the last congress will succeed it.

Two groups have asked the commission for licenses to build power systems in southeastern Alaska to supply pulp and paper mills, but the present commission is reluctant to act until it learns how soon the new five-man commission authorized by the last congress will succeed it. The senate adjourned without confirming three men President Hoover had nominated, and the chief executive now is awaiting an opinion from the attorney general on whether the power act will permit him to make recess appointments.

The two developments contemplate the production of 365,000 tons of newsprint annually, each consuming within 20 years $35,000,000 cubic feet of timber from the Tongass national forest. Their paper would be shipped into the United States at prices equal to or lower than those established by the Canadian producers.

Recently the Federal Trade commission found that Canadian newsprint paper cost from $6.50 to $7.70 per big lot contracts. It estimated Alaskan paper could be delivered to New Orleans for $38 a ton, to Cincinnati and Chicago for $46 a ton.

60 PER CENT CROP OF PEAS THIS YEAR

Most of 62 Persons Employed in Plant Are Idle as Mill Closes

Kaukauna—Reports from the Baker Canning company at Dundas indicate that the 1930 pea crop was a 60 per cent crop while the 1929 crop was an 80 per cent crop. The loss was charged to lack of rain, according to Robert Baker head of the plant. This is the seventh year the factory has been operated.

Approximately 11,000 cases of peas were canned from a total of 1,150 acres of peas. The peas were purchased for 3 cents a pound this year, the same price as last year. Mr. Baker said.

The plant opened on June 23 and employed 62 men until closing this week. Some men still are employed in the shipping department.

As more than half of the employees live in Kaukauna the city again has a number of unemployed.

WOULD MOVE TO CURB MORTGAGE FORECLOSURES

Piggott, Ark.—(AP)—United States Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, believes the state and federal governments should cooperate in measures to aid farmers whose crops have been damaged by drought and proposes a moratorium to avert the wholesale foreclosure of farm mortgages.

The senator expressed his views in a campaign speech.

"At the beginning of next season our farmers will be without seed, feed and other supplies," Senator Robinson said. "Their credit has been exhausted and local institutions will not be able to furnish adequate funds.

"This is so vital that it overshadows partisan and personal consideration. Both the state and federal governments should help in tiding over the danger."

As to the moratorium he proposed, Senator Robinson said "the details will be difficult but not impossible to work out. This proposal rests on sound policy and the congress will be responsive to the suggestion when the facts are fairly presented."

Of Interest To Farmers

NO EARLY RISE SEEN

IN PRICES OF EGGS

Washington—(AP)—The establishment of an all-American newsprint paper industry in Alaska to compete with the virtual monopoly now enjoyed by Canada is at a standstill because of the uncertainty of the Federal Power commission.

Two groups have asked the commission for licenses to build power systems in southeastern Alaska to supply pulp and paper mills, but the present commission is reluctant to act until it learns how soon the new five-man commission authorized by the last congress will succeed it.

The senate adjourned without confirming three men President Hoover had nominated, and the chief executive now is awaiting an opinion from the attorney general on whether the power act will permit him to make recess appointments.

The two developments contemplate the production of 365,000 tons of newsprint annually, each consuming within 20 years $35,000,000 cubic feet of timber from the Tongass national forest.

It estimated Alaskan paper could be delivered to New Orleans for $38 a ton, to Cincinnati and Chicago for $46 a ton.

Chicks hatched early this season has not materialized in a corresponding increase in number of young chicks on farms. This indicates that farmers are reducing their flocks.

A moderate reduction in number of layers is justified, but extreme reduction appears unnecessary.

RETESTS SHOW WORTH

OF TUBERCULIN WORK

In four Wisconsin counties where the cattle were tuberculin tested three years ago and all reactors removed, a recent retest of 187,673 cattle disclosed only 183 reactors.

This proportion of only about 1 in 1,000 egg prices other than the seasonal rise this fall are not expected until after the first of next year.

Little improvement in the market for poultry is expected during the remainder of the year according to midsummer outlook report issued today by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Receipt of dressed poultry at terminals has been very heavy this season, the report says, and while the excess over last year's holdings in cold storage has been reduced each succeeding month, stocks of frozen poultry are still considerably heavier than usual.

Storage stocks of eggs are unusually heavy and the demand situation for both poultry and eggs is generally unfavorable.

Farmers are decreasing the number of laying hens at present more rapidly than last year in this time.

The big increase in the number of has been noticeably favorable, says County Agent L. G. Kuennen, of Monroe co., in commenting on this phase of the work. The favorable attitude of the public and the cooperation extended by breeders greatly expedited the testing, the official veterinarians report. The small number of reactors found three years after the original testing has impressed veterinary officials and herd owners with the thoroughness of the previous work and the accuracy of the tuberculin test.

BE SAFE, FARMERS; CONSTRUCT BULL PEN

Madison—Too many Wisconsin farmers are being killed by gentle bulls.

Bull pens are the safest way to reduce the danger in handling the herd size. In order to increase the number of pens under construction, the department of agriculture engineering and animal husbandry at the University of Wisconsin have designed an effective bull pen and have made a set of collapsible forms for its construction. During July, S. A. Witzel of the engineering department has been busy in several counties demonstrating how to build a bull pen.

A fall tour to farms in various parts of the state where a bull pen will be constructed as a demonstration is now being planned. Farmers interested in constructing a pen are urged to get in touch with the county agent or with the agricultural college.

PROTESTS NYE'S METHOD OF CONDUCTING INQUIRY

Omaha—(AP)—A protest against the methods employed by Senator Nye, in conducting a hearing at Broken Bow, Neb., recently on the filing of a second George W. Norris bill for the Republican senatorial nomination was expressed in a lengthy communication sent to President Hoover Tuesday by Harry O. Palmer, Omaha, prominent attorney and candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

"Arriving in Nebraska, Inquisitor Nye set up court at Broken Bow, summoned witnesses, uttered slanders against our people, requisitioned private papers, looked into private bank accounts of our citizens and after days of bullying and hectoring, departed without proving anything or without even advising our people of the nature of his charges against them or the purpose of his visit," Palmer wrote.

Palmer recently wrote a letter to President von Hindenburg of the

by RICHARD STARR

SYNOPSIS: On a lonely road 45 miles from London Mr. Arthur Carew tries to force his attentions on Jacqueline Grey but is repulsed. She tricks him by a pretended faint, and as he rushes away to get help, Jacqueline flees. She rescues an old gentleman from beneath his overturned car and returns to London after summoning a physician. Four days later she calls Mr. Paul Dexter, the name on the card the injured man gave her and is chagrined when he denies knowing anything about the incident. She dismisses him from her mind under the more pressing problem of the future. Her stay among the wealthy is nearly ended, her 500-pound bequest having vanished. She is planning to leave her hotel suite when Teddy Montrose appears unannounced.

Chapter 30
JACQUELINE IS HAPPY
T eddy looked the picture of health and happiness, and also the picture of prosperity, not that she had ever seen him look anything else. He was in evening clothes again. The smile she had dreamed of so often was on his face. His white teeth gleamed pleasantly like his shirt-front.

"All alone?" he asked quietly.
"Oh - Teddy. Yes, I am all alone. What is the matter?"
"Nothing in the world is the matter, or nothing unpleasant," replied Teddy. "Only that I have come back Jacqueline. And I have come for keeps."

"What do you mean, Teddy?"
"Where's that American twirp-Carew, he's called, isn't he?"
"I don't know where he is, Teddy."
"I saw you with him in a car several days ago."
"I have not seen him since then, Teddy. I don't want to see him ever again."

Teddy drew a deep breath. "Good," he said.
He came nearer, much nearer, but he did not attempt to touch her. Jacqueline found herself trembling and she had to turn her face away from him, because there was such a light of joy and triumph in his eyes.
"What had happened? Why had he come back? She was thinking of the packed suitcase in the other room, and the hat and coat which lay ready on the bed. Her little holiday had come to an end. Tonight the Jacqueline whom Teddy had known would vanish like Cinderella at the stroke of midnight. What was it that Teddy had come to say?"

"Princess," he said, "I want you to love me."
Teddy calmly dropped his hat and coat on the floor and held his arms out. It was just a step, and Jacqueline did not quite know what she was doing until she found that she had crept between those sheltering arms against his broad chest. "Oh, Teddy," she whispered with a catch in her voice, "I ought not to do this."

"It's the best thing you have ever done, Jacqueline, my little sweetheart. Look at me, darling!"
There was just one faint hope - if Teddy were still poor he might forgive her own poverty and still love her but Teddy quickly burst that bubble.

"Sit down, Princess," he said, handing her to a low chair, "and I'll sit at your feet while I unfold my tale of sudden good fortune. "My purse is full again. I bought Pinkfoot back again and hacked him in the Cambridgeshire Plate where he ran to and fro and spread-easted the field."

Good fortune for Teddy but sad news for Jacqueline. Hear the rest of Teddy's tale tomorrow.

The governor of Indiana, who proposes to install flood lights on the state house roof to entice amorous couples who have used the capitol grounds for petting, considers this, no doubt, the beginning of a searching investigation.

REAL CLEANUP NOW
SEEN IN DETROIT
FOLLOWING RECALL

Blind Pigs, Gambling Dens
Flourished as "Reformer"
Took Office

BY BRUCE CATTON

(Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)
Detroit—An experiment in municipal government, indulged in because the ghost of the Ku Klux Klan still stalks through the streets of America's fourth city, is just coming to an exciting conclusion. Mayor Charles Bowles, recalled by the voters at a special election, faces almost certain defeat in the special election that will be held in September to choose his successor.

The experiment was a peculiar one.

Detroit elected a mayor on a reform platform and found the gamblers and liquor dealers enjoying a strange new prosperity under his regime. Detroit defeated the candidate who called for an "open town" and then found that the town was more "open" under the man it elected than it probably would have been if the other chap had won. Now, since the murder of Gerald Buckley, radio vice crusader, an unprecedented cleanup has taken place.

Mayor Bowles, storm center of Detroit ever had, is a strange figure.

WAS TWICE DEFEATED

Born in the small town of Yale, Mich., a former street car motorman and then an obscure lawyer, he was practically unheard of in Detroit until six years ago. Then he ran for mayor with Ku Klux Klan backing—although he has always denied ever being a member of the Klan himself—and surprised everybody by polling 70,000 votes.

He ran again in the next election. Again he was beaten, but again the Klan helped him get a huge vote. Bowles thereupon ran for a judgeship in the recorder's court, won election, and bided his time.

A year ago he entered the lists again. Victorious in the primary, he faced former Mayor John W. Smith in the fall election. Smith is a Catholic and a wet.

Bowles set up a law-and-order platform. Nightly he demanded cleanup in the police department. He urged the closing of blind pigs—as speakeasies are known here—gambling joints and disorderly houses. Simultaneously the religious issue entered the campaign—not in the open, but underground. The Klan is an organization is moribund here; but their ghost still lives, and the religious issue won many votes for Bowles. He beat Smith by about $500 votes.

ELECTED, TROUBLES BEGIN

Bowles administration had hardly begun before he was in hot water. First he tried to raise street railway fares from six to eight cents and to cut bus fares from ten to eight cents. It was charged that the effort to cut the bus fares was an attempt to reward voters in the outlying districts, who had gone heavily anti-Smith in the election; at any rate the city council refused to approve the move, and it was dropped.

Then Bowles appointed to the commissionership of public works one John Gillespie. Gillespie was head of the Detroit Reduction Company, which held a profitable city contract for the disposal of garbage. When he took office, Gillespie announced that he had severed connection with this company; nevertheless, he had not been in office 10 days before he got the council to reaward the contract to the Detroit Reduction Company, and fought sharply to kill a proposal for construction of a city-owned reduction plant.

CITY IS "WIDE OPEN"

Gillespie was also accused of interfering in the conduct of other departments, notably the police department. It was noticed, furthermore, that gambling houses were beginning to reopen, and that blind pigs were running full blast. In addition, it was recalled that even during the campaign the city's gamblers had been reported to be contributors to Bowles' campaign fund.

Detroit soon became, once more, a wide-open town. The newspapers stormed about it for a long time without getting action.

Finally Mayor Bowles went to see the Kentucky Derby, and during his absence Police Commissioner H. H. Emmons went out and made a series of raids on gambling joints and blind pigs.

Bowles got back to town two days later and promptly removed Emmons from office, putting Thomas C. Wilcox in his place.

That was the move that provoked the recall movement. It gained impetus from that date, and the recall campaign just ended was one of the most spectacular and the most hectic administration Detroit ever had, in strange figure.

THE MURDER OF BUCKLEY

Bowles lost in the recall election; and just after his defeat was announced he suffered a bit of supreme bad luck. Jerry Buckley, radio announcer who had fought him throughout the campaign, was murdered by gangsters in a hotel lobby; and although it became evident that the reason for Buckley's murder lay elsewhere, the tragedy reacted directly against the mayor.

Two days after the murder, Gillespie resigned his position and said he would take no part in the fall campaign; and political wiseacres attributed his move to a conviction that Bowles cannot possibly win. Moreover, in response to an aroused public sentiment, the greatest cleanup in Detroit's history has begun. Speakeasies and gambling joints have been closed by order.

As things stand today, Bowles is doomed to defeat unless there are so many candidates against him that the protest vote is split.

His opponents are alive to this danger, and present indications are that they will unite behind George Engel, former president of the civil service commission, former commissioner of public works and former city controller. If they do, only a miracle can save Bowles.

BOWLES STILL CONFIDENT

Bowles, however, professes to be confident and full of fight.

"We are going to have a real fight before they put this steal across," he told me. "It is a bare-

Mother's Neglect Cause Of Child's Peevishness

Madison—Peevishness in the child is more often caused by the neglects of the mother than by any inherent "fit of temper." When a normally healthy child sulks, or cries, or "acts cross," the reason is usually a physical one, according to a health bulletin issued under the supervision of the Educational Committee of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin today.

"Irritability in the child is often caused by dressing too warmly," con-faced steal engineered by certain local political leaders, chief among them the man I defeated in the last election—ex-Mayor Smith.

"I say the recall was a steal because of the fact that it was based on insufficient petitions. Under the law, the recall petitions must bear 90,000 signatures. These petitions had not more than 35,000—the rest were filled in."

"I don't believe the Buckley murderer had any connection with the recall movement. The police department charges that Buckley was involved in racketeering activities. I think it is quite apparent from the police reports that he was killed by gangsters because of his racketeering activities; at least, that is indicated by the report."

"It was pointed out by one police official that because of Buckley's connection with the recall movement, the gangsters chose that particular time to kill him so as to divert attention from the real motive for the murder."

"The gang situation here is no worse than it is anywhere else. We've had gang shootings here, just as other cities have had them, but our have been exaggerated by an unfriendly press. We are supposing that sort of thing as fast as we can. Commissioner Wilcox is honest and energetic and he is making a real effort to give Detroit a clean administration."
